

Dear Middle Schooler,

As we are home for the next few weeks, we have a challenge for you!! Do as many as you would like or none if that is your fancy! Either way, there will be prizes awarded our first day back to class! The only thing we ask is as you complete a challenge, be sure to document it with a picture or video and send it to us! We will compile everything you send in and judge accordingly. So, dust off those Legos and warn your mom that you will be baking in the kitchen and let's have some fun. Check our website regularly and we will post some pictures of you guys taking on these challenges and maybe a few of your leaders doing the same! We miss you and know this too shall pass but until then, let's keep in touch! Have fun and let's see what you can do!

Mr. and Mrs. Starner

Mr. and Mrs. Barno

Mr. and Mrs. Carson

- Build something creative with Legos (this cannot be a past project you did before getting this list)
- Bake and decorate a cake
- Build something out of wood
- Memorize a chapter in the Bible
- Make a funny video with your siblings
- Learn to juggle
- Paint or draw a picture
- Clean and organize your room (this is for the NOT so OCD kiddos, if you don't know what that means ask your mom!)
- Complete a puzzle (more than 100 pieces please)
- Write a letter to a family member and mail it!
- Take a virtual field trip (National Parks...Yellowstone, Sequoia, Glacier, Arches or the Smithsonian of Natural History) send us an email or video message of what you liked best and why!
- Learn to play a new song on the piano, guitar, ukulele...whatever instrument you know how to play.
- Build a model airplane, car etc.
- Perform a scientific experiment and video it...be the best mad scientist you know how to be!
- Create a magnificent work of art outside on your driveway or sidewalk with chalk!
- Be in charge of making dinner...this includes the cleanup! And no, a bowl of cereal does not count...as much as I love a good bowl of cereal for dinner!
- Screen capture a web-sharing window of you and your friends (i.e. from Hangouts or Zoom)
- Take a picture playing a board game with your family/siblings

The possibilities are endless...so feel free to add your own and be sure to send us your photos/videos!
